

Professor Makoto Yokohari

Graduate School of Engineering, The University of Tokyo, Japan

Dr Makoto Yokohari is professor at the Graduate School of Engineering, The University of Tokyo. He received Bachelor of Agriculture (1984), Master of Agriculture (1986), and PhD (2002) from The University of Tokyo. Landscape and urban planning, urban ecology, ecological landscape design are the cores of his academic interests.

Dr. Yokohari's professional career includes Research fellow at the National Institute of Agro-Environmental Sciences (1986 to 1998), Visiting Scholar at University of Guelph, Canada (1992 to 1993), Associate Professor at University of Tsukuba (1998 to 2004), Professor at University of Tsukuba (2004 to 2006) and Visiting Scholar at University of Copenhagen (2015).

Dr. Yokohari has been invited to teach at universities including University of Kyoto, Japan, Waseda University, Japan, Tongji University, China, China Agriculture University, China, University of Adelaide, Australia, Bogor Agricultural University, Indonesia, Chulalongkorn University, Thailand, University of Massachusetts, USA, University of Guelph, Canada, University of British Columbia, Canada, Swedish Agricultural University, Sweden, University of Copenhagen, Denmark, University of Bari, Italy, and Technical Institute of Wien, Austria. His professional career as a technical advisor includes National Capital Region Planning Committee, EXPO2005 Planning Committee, 2020 Tokyo Olympic Games Planning Committee, and Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries Planning Committee of Tokyo. His academic publications include over 120 reviewed papers and 20 book articles.