American Foresters

THE LARGEST FOREST MANAGEMENT EXPO IN THE UNITED STATES is happening at the combined International Union of Forest Research Organizations (IUFRO) World Congress and Society of American Foresters (SAF) National Convention and Canadian Institute of Forestry's Annual General Meeting.

Salt Lake City, Utah, USA

8-11 October 2014

The International Union of Forest Research Organizations is the World's Forest Science Network. It unites more than 15,000 scientists in 650 member organizations in over 120 countries.

Its members include government research institutions, universities, individual scientists, non-governmental organizations, decision making authorities, forest landowners, corporations, and others with a focus on forests. Pursuing a greener, sustainable future for humanity is at the core of IUFRO's activities worldwide. As the largest global network of researchers focused on forests – stretching from tropical to boreal regions – IUFRO's members are at the forefront of creating knowledge to sustain forests and support people's well-being.

The Society of American Foresters challenges landowners, decisionmakers and society at large to make choices about our forests based on professional knowledge, leading-edge thinking and a century of practical experience.

SAF seeks viable pathways forward, balancing diverse demands on our natural resources and sets the standard in forest management, bringing science, best practice and the best people together to actively shape the future of the profession. With a focus on thriving forests, essential resources and a strong community, SAF unites 12,000 members, representing all U.S. states and from 60 different countries.

The Canadian Institute of Forestry is the Canadian national voice of forest practitioners.

Formed in 1908, the Institute represents foresters, forest technologists and technicians, ecologists, biologists, geographers, educators, scientists and many others with a professional interest in forestry. The Institute's mission is to provide national leadership in forestry, promote competence among forestry professionals, and foster public awareness of Canadian and international forestry issues.

Reasons to participate:

- Reach more than 4,000 forest management professionals and scientists – coming from all types of forestry-related fields, including forest operations, forest engineering, biology, ecology, wildlife management, aquatic restoration, social sciences, and more.
- Market to a diverse set of delegates from over 100 countries.
- Engage with influential forest management professionals who have budget and decision authority!
- Dramatically increase your exposure in the competitive marketplace through the assertive marketing of exhibitors to more than 30,000 professionals worldwide.
- Create visibility and awareness to drive your business and organization.
- Educate qualified professionals about your products through scheduled presentations.
- Showcase your products and develop and build business relationships with potential new clients, partners, policy makers and decision makers.
- Launch new products in a high-profile venue.
- Visit one-on-one with attendees during designated networking breaks, lunches, and events in the Exposition Hall.
- Show the profession that you are active, interested, and committed to serving the forestry, research, and land management markets!

In 2014, three longstanding traditions – the IUFRO World Congress, occurring every five years since 1893 and the SAF National Convention, occurring nearly annually since 1903; and the CIF Annual General Meeting, occurring annually since 1908 – will come together for the first time in history in a unique event that will bring together domestic and international forest and natural resource researchers and land managers from all over the world. Together we can build a healthier, greener future.
